Book Stores and Book Sales

The primary revenue stream for the Friends of the Library continues to be SALES of Donated Books from Patrons and Friends. Through the efforts of many, many, many volunteers, the combined total sales generates over $60,000 per year.

The rest of the more than $130,00 provided to the libraries comes from membership dues and direct monetary donations.

Where Does All This Money Go?

Children's Programming throughout the Year, Summer Reading Program, Books and Babies Program supported by the Brindle Foundation and an anonymous donor. Books and Materials, eBooks, a new security system for Southside, and a lot of other things.

RSVP Santa Fe - Benefits of Volunteering

If you are over 55 years of age, you are eligible for the City of Santa Fe's Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), which provides free insurance coverage if you are injured on your volunteer job.
